(I) University of Pennsylvania East Asia Events for 2/15/2014— 2/28/2014

Zhongdang Pan Professor, Department of Communication Arts, University of Wisconsin-Madison - "Projecting the Family-Nation Globally: A (Re)analysis of CCTV's Spring Festival Gala"

A CENTER FOR EAST ASIAN STUDIES COLLOQUIUM

ISSUES IN CONTEMPORARY EAST ASIA

PROJECTING THE FAMILY-NATION GLOBALLY:

A (RE)ANALYSIS OF CCTV'S SPRING FESTIVAL GALA

Date: Thursday, February 20, 2014

Time: 12pm

Location: Room 500 of the Annenberg School for Communication (3620 Walnut Street, Philadelphia)

For more than 30 years, the annual variety show on Chinese Central Television (CCTV) called Spring Festival Gala (Chunwan) has been a state-sponsored enactment of the Chinese nation. For its 2014 installment, some major “innovations” were promised, including its alleged official designation as a “national project” comparable in status to the 2008 Beijing Olympics. Analyzing the texts and paratexts of the galas in sample years, this paper demonstrates some key discursive features of this show. Beamed globally via the satellite and Internet, the gala creates a trans-territorial enactment of festivity that all those of the Chinese origin around the world participate in. By invoking the vernacular notions of ancestors, blood ties, family relations, and home, and by iconizing widely familiar physical objects into symbols of the Chinese nation, the gala essentializes not only the Chinese nation but also the Other and China’s relationship with the Other. Through the performances and carefully created montages of pre-recorded images, the gala weaves the cultural cosmos of China. In it, China is a cultural empire; the Chinese nation is a family with a common ancestor; the admission into the Chinese nation comes from submission to the blood tie and engagement in the “Chinese” cultural practices; and the communist state is the home that guards the common ancestor and shelters all family members. With the state’s investment in its annual production, the gala is much more than a cultural product marketed globally. It is also a key site for the state-sanctioned discursive project of constructing the Chinese nation and projecting China’s “soft power.” It enacts the cultural imagination that is propagated as a basis for how China must play her role in globalization. The alignment of the the state’s stake in interpellating its subjects and projecting its power and the commercial interests of CCTV as a state-owned profit-generating corporation is safeguarding its continuation in today’s new media environment.

 David M. Robinson, Robert H.N. Ho Professor in Asian Studies and Professor of History at Colgate University - "Empire's Shadow: The Ming Court in Eurasia"

The Center for East Asian Studies Humanities Colloquium Series presents

Empire's Shadow: The Ming Court in Eurasia

Date and Location: Wednesday, February 26, 4:30pm – 6pm in Stiteler Hall Room B21, University of Pennsylvania

Talk abstract: The Ming dynasty (1368-1644) was one of a constellation of successor states to emerge out the collapse of the Mongol empire in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. Politics and peoples in much of Eurasia wrestled with how to understand and exploit the legacy of the Mongol empire, which included memories of subjugation and conquest, continent-spanning institutional practices, networks of trade, broad diasporas, and a deeply altered geopolitical landscape. My talk examines how the Ming court navigated this challenging terrain in its exercise of rulership at home and abroad during the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries.

 Secretary General Kunio Mikuriya of the World Customs Organization - "Customs' Evolving Role in Ensuring Connectivity at Borders"

The Center for East Asian Studies and
The Lauder Institute present

Secretary-General Kunio Mikuriya of the World Customs Organization

For a discussion on
Customs' Evolving Role in Ensuring Connectivity at Borders

Date and Location: Thursday, February 27, 4:30pm – 6pm in room 270 of Jon M. Huntsman Hall, University of Pennsylvania

Starting with a revenue collection function, Customs has evolved its mission to include a contribution to economic competitiveness by improving transparency and efficiency of supply chain while protecting health, safety, and security of society. The talk will draw on practical examples across the world and history to illustrate how Customs bring stability and prosperity to economies by supporting a business-friendly environment, including the recent WTO Agreement on Trade Facilitation, in the era of regional economic integration.

Kunio Mikuriya worked seven years as the Organization's Deputy Secretary General, collaborating with the World Trade Organization, the World Bank, and other development banks to coordinate reform projects. He served 25 years as Japan's Ministry of Finance.

Cosponsored with the Lauder Institute

 Fourth Film of the February Film Series "Giant Robots!" in Japanese Film:
"Denjin Zabōgā"

Date and Location: Thursday, February 27, 7pm – 9pm in Annenberg 111, University of Pennsylvania

Directed by Izuki Noboru, 2011. Presented in Japanese with English subtitles.

A young man with a motorcycle that has the ability to transform into a karate-fighting robot hunts down a gang of evil cyborgs to avenge the death of his father.

* World Affairs Council Speaker Event: "The Ravenous Dragon: China's Quest for Global Resources", with Dr. Michael Levi, Senior Fellow, Council on Foreign Relations

Date and Location: Wednesday, February 19, 2014 at the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia on One South Broad Street

In the past thirty years, China has transformed from an impoverished country to an economic power with an expanding middle class and more megacities than anywhere else on earth. Like every other major power in modern history, China is looking outward to find the massive quantities of resources needed to maintain its economic expansion; it is now engaged in a far flung quest around the world for fuel, ores, water, and land for farming. Chinese traders and investors buy commodities, with consequences for economies, people, and the environment around the world. Meanwhile the Chinese military aspires to secure sea lanes, and Chinese diplomats struggle to protect the country's interests abroad.

Join us as Dr. Michael Levi explores where China's pursuit of raw materials may take the country in the coming years and what the consequences will be.

Copies of Dr. Levi's book, By All Means Necessary: How China's Resource Quest is Changing the World, co-authored with Elizabeth Economy, will be available for purchase and signing at the event.

We are offering a full-time student price of $10 for those interested. Students and faculty can register through the following link or by calling 215-561-4700 and registering with one of our staff.

* Korean Film Series at the Philadelphia Museum of Art

Date and Location: Wednesdays (March 16, April 2, 9, 16, 23, 30) at the Philadelphia Museum of Art, Van Pelt Auditorium

Featuring a mix of contemporary films, documentaries, and classics, this series showcases traditional and modern Korean culture with themes explored in the exhibition Treasures from Korea: Arts and Culture of the Joseon Dynasty, 1392-1910. Each film is introduced by Joe Kim, founder of the Philadelphia Asian American Film Festival. Discussions with experts in Korean film and history follow most screenings.

The film series continues each Wednesday in April with screenings of:

April 2: Chi-hwa-seon (Painted Fire) - A vivid portrait of the life of one of Korea's greatest artists, renowned painter Jang Seung-eop.

April 9: Sunny - About a middle-aged woman who tries to fulfill her friend's dying wish of reuniting their group of high school friends.

April 16: Spring, Summer, Fall, Winter... and Spring - Award-winning Korean writer/director/editor Kim Ki-duk has crafted a lushly exotic, yet universal story about the human spirit and its evolution, from innocence to love, evil to enlightenment, and ultimately to rebirth.

April 23: Planet B-Boy - Weaving between the vivid backdrops of Osaka, Paris, Las Vegas, and Seoul, unforgettable images frame the intimate stories of international teams of dancers who struggle to fulfill their dreams.

April 30: The Yellow Sea - Screened in the Un Certain Regard section at the 2011 Cannes Film Festival, The Yellow Sea is an impressive crime thriller from director Na Hong-jin (The Chaser).

Register Now for the 2014 6th Annual Trans-Pacific Partnership Series: Can Abenomics Save Japan?

Date and Location:

Wednesday, March 5, 2014, 10:00am-1:30pm (includes lunch)
Union League of Philadelphia
140 South Broad Street
Philadelphia, PA 19102

After almost twenty years of economic stagnation and political paralysis, is Japan poised to reemerge as a global leader? The Japan America Society of Greater Philadelphia has assembled a group of leading policymakers and analysts to examine the underlying causes of Japan's long economic struggle, and the optimism being generated by Prime Minister Shinzo Abe's efforts to reignite the Japanese economy. Have Abenomics put Japan once again on the road to global economic prominence? Or will the apparent success of Abe's policies prove to be short-lived?

Disasters and Rebuilding in Japan: Perspectives and Testimonies from the Tri-

Co Collection

Date and Location: Bryn Mawr College, Canaday Library, Dec. 5, 2013 - March 7, 2014

This exhibition reflects the collaborative efforts of the Bryn Mawr 360° program Perspectives on Sustainability: Narratives of Disasters and Rebuilding in Japan. 360° programs are unique educational experiences designed to expand beyond the boundaries of the classroom and bridge between disciplines and communities. Usually taught in clusters of two or more courses, 360° programs cultivate in-depth and interdisciplinary scholarship, collaborative research, and creative community interaction. For Perspectives on Sustainability, participants enrolled in three course all focused on the history of disaster in Japan. Under the guidance of Bryn Mawr College Professor Carola Hein (Growth and Structures of Cities) and Swarthmore College Professors William Gardner (Japanese Modern Languages and Literatures) and Tomoko Sakomura (Art), the 360° students focused their research on four catastrophic events: The Great Kanto Earthquake of 1923, the 1945 Atomic Bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the Kobe Earthquake of 1995, and the triple disaster of March 11, 2011.

Students considered the historical impact of these disasters through their representation in Japanese art, literature and documentary film, and the effected changes and continuities in urban form and architecture. Additionally, the 360° participants grounded this larger history through primary research in the Tri-College archives and collections. This exhibition is the culmination of the students' joint efforts and explorations. Focusing on the time periods surrounding these four major disasters, the exhibit traces the lasting relationship between the Tri-College community and Japan. In three sections, the exhibit includes thematic panels addressing pertinent scholarship, a timeline of important bridges between Tri-Co and Japan, and a selection of objects from the college collections, all of which testify to the resilience of Japanese culture and the importance of remembrance, reflection, and the extension of communities beyond the boundaries of nation.

Congressional-Executive Commission on China SUMMER 2014 INTERNSHIP - Deadline: March 1, 2014

The Congressional-Executive Commission on China (www.cecc.gov) is offering paid internships to qualified undergraduates, graduate students, or recent graduates this coming summer in Washington, D.C. Interns must be U.S. citizens. The application deadline is March 1, 2014 for the Summer 2014 internship that runs from June to August 2014. Summer internships are full-time; interns are expected to work from 32 to 40 hours per week. See application instructions below. CECC internships provide significant educational and professional experience for undergraduates, graduate students, or recent graduates with a background in Chinese politics, law, and society, and strong Chinese language skills.

Interns work closely with the Commission and its staff on the full array of issues concerning human rights, the rule of law, and governance in China (including criminal justice, democratic governance institutions, environmental problems, religious freedom, freedom of expression, ethnic minority rights, women's rights, etc.).

Interns perform important research support tasks (often in Chinese), attend seminars, meet Members of Congress and experts from the United States and abroad, and draft Commission analyses. Click here for CECC analysis of recent developments in the rule of law and human rights in China. Interns may also be trained to work with the Commission's Political Prisoner Database, which has been accessible by the public since its launch in November 2004 (click here to begin a search).

The CECC staff is committed to interns' professional development, and holds regular roundtables for interns on important China-related issues.

Summer 2014 interns will be paid $10/hour. Those unable to apply for Summer 2014 internships may apply for the Spring (February-May) or Fall (September-December). Further details are available on the Commission's Web site at <http://www.cecc.gov/pages/general/employ.php>.

Qualifications:

*Interns must be U.S. citizens.

*Interns should have completed at least some China-related coursework. It is also desirable that they have some background in one or more of the specific human rights and rule of law issues in the CECC legislative mandate.

*Interns should be able to read Chinese well enough to assist with research in newspapers, journals, and on Web sites. More advanced Chinese language capability would be a plus. The successful candidate for an internship often will have lived or studied in mainland China, Hong Kong, or Taiwan.

*Although our interns are generally undergraduates, graduate students, or recent graduates, others are also welcome to apply.

Application Instructions for Summer 2014:

Interested applicants should send a cover letter, resume, and the names and contact information for two references, to the CECC via e-mail to Judy Wright, Director of Administration at judy.wright@mail.house.gov by March 1, 2014. Applications must be received by our office no later than 11:59 P.M. Eastern Time on March 1. Please discuss in your cover letter how your professional goals, interests, and background relate to the Commission's legislative mandate regarding human rights and the rule of law in China. No phone calls please.

 PAID SUMMER CURATORIAL INTERNSHIP at the John and Mable Ringling Museum of Art - *Deadline: March 3, 2014

The John and Mable Ringling Museum of Art in Sarasota, Florida, will be offering a paid internship in its Curatorial department for ten weeks June 2 - August 8, 2014. The Ringling is part of Florida State University and serves as the State Art Museum of Florida. Located on a 66-acre site overlooking Sarasota Bay, it consists of an art museum, two circus museums, historic home, theater, and research library.

The Curatorial intern will participate in a research project exploring John Ringling's collections of ancient and Asian art and assist with research on other Asian art collections at the museum. Ideal candidates will be Graduate students in art history, with an interest in the history of collecting and/or visual culture; excellent research and writing skills. International applicants must have a current U.S. Visa and be eligible to work in the U.S.

The internship pays $11.25/hr. The intern is responsible for his/her own housing (the Museum will assist with locating nearby rentals). Application materials can be found at <http://ringling.org/internships>.

 Leadership in Action (LIA) Eight-Week Paid Summer Internship by Leadership Education for Asian Pacifics (LEAP) - *Deadline: March 10, 2014

Leadership in Action (LIA) is an eight-week paid summer internship program designed to develop emerging young leaders by providing college students with practical leadership skills and the opportunity to work hands-on in the Asian and Pacific Islander (API) community in Southern California.

Approaching its 17th year, the program takes learning beyond the classroom, and places them in selected community-based organizations in Southern California, where they are expected to work 4 full days per week under an assigned staff supervisor. The fifth day will be devoted to leadership development training or issue discussions and group project work. Nationally recognized trainers will deliver workshops in critical skill areas. Issue discussions are on local or timely topics of interest and are facilitated by local community leaders/activists and LEAP trainers.

Program Length and Stipend: The eight-week program runs from June 16 through August 8, 2014. Interns will receive compensation in the amount of $2,500 for successful completion of the program and are responsible for their own housing, transportation, and insurance.

Who should apply: College students or recent graduates with...

- * Prior experience in API communities
- * A passion for learning and growing leadership skills
- * An interest in gaining work experience in an API community-based nonprofit organization

Applications available online at: <http://bit.ly/1dbWXYA>. All application materials must be received by Monday, March 10, 2014.

U.S. - China Student Summit in Beijing - $1,000 scholarships deadline February 28th, 2014

The U.S.-China Student Summit will bring together students from the U.S. and China to discuss the important issues of our international relationship and to create bonds of friendship that help us all see how much common ground we have. Before this 2-day event, students will travel with their peers to learn about Chinese history, visit Chinese companies, and engage in special cultural activities. Students can earn college credit just for participation, and can further build their resume by taking courses to earn up to 6 credits at Peking University, considered the "Harvard of China." There are a couple of ways for students to participate:

FORM A DELEGATION FROM YOUR SCHOOL!

Faculty and administrators from all over the U.S. are forming groups of students to explore China together as part of a 10-day experience, culminating at the 2-day Summit in Beijing as a delegation representing your school. It is not too late to get started. Contact us immediately at studentsummit@worldstrides.org.

JOIN THE WORLDSTRIDES DELEGATION

Students without a university delegation may join a WorldStrides delegation to travel with other individual students from all over the United States before the 2-day Summit in Beijing. Learn more at www.chinastudentsummit.org/apply!

The scholarship fund is limited, and need-based scholarships will be distributed on a first-come, first-serve basis. Students must apply before February 28 to receive $1,000 in funds. Find more information on scholarships at www.chinastudentsummit.org/scholarships.

66th Japan-America Student Conference (JASC) - "Communicate and Connect: Pursuing Peace at the Crossroads of Culture" - Deadline to apply: March 1, 2014

The Japan-America Student Conference (JASC) is a student-led exchange program, initiated in 1934 by university students concerned by the breakdown of bilateral relations prior to the Second World War. Today, an equal number of students from the U.S. and Japan are competitively selected each year to spend one summer month together, studying and analyzing Japan-U.S. relations while visiting four diverse regions in the host country. JASC alternates its host country every year, emphasizing the personal connections between two distinct cultures gathered together in one place.

From July 28th to August 24th 2014, the 66th Japan-America Student Conference (JASC) will bring together 72 Japanese and U.S. students of diverse backgrounds and perspectives. The two delegations will study, work, live, and travel together as a group, visiting four regions in the United States.

Student delegates will join Roundtables to discuss related topics, supported by student leaders of JASC, the 66th JASC Executive Committee. Roundtables are comprised of equal numbers of delegates from each country. The roundtables for the conference follow:

- Art and Identity
- Environmental Initiatives for a Sustainable Future
- Immigration in the Modern Era
- Modern Consequences of Historical Education
- Morality and Justice
- Smart Power in US-Japan Relations
- Technological Advancements and Society

 Call for Proposals: 43rd Annual Mid-Atlantic Region Association for Asian Studies Conference with the New York Conference on Asian Studies at Hofstra University. *Deadline for proposals April 7th, 2014

The Hofstra Cultural Center, the New York Conference on Asian Studies (NYCAS) and the Mid-Atlantic Region Association for Asian Studies (MAR/AAS) are proud to present an international conference that contemplates how ongoing economic, social and political transformations have challenged present-day perceptions of Asian cultural identities.

The program committee invites proposals for panels, round-tables, and individual papers on all aspects of Asian and Asian-American history, culture, and contemporary life, representing disciplines in the humanities, social sciences, and professional schools. Interdisciplinary proposals are also welcome. In addition, the conference will feature a Teaching Asia Workshop, concerts, art exhibitions and cultural events.

Presentation topics may include, but are not limited to, the following: Notions of hybridity, Diaspora and migration, Global Asian cosmopolitanisms/transnational cultures, and Impact of globalization. Please visit the website for more information. The deadline for submission of proposals for individual papers, panels, and round-tables is April 7, 2014. For proposal submission, please visit tinyurl.com/NYCASMAR14 or email the conference co-directors.

 Call for Papers: The Center for Japanese Studies at UC Berkeley's First Annual Graduate Conference on Ecology and Space - *Deadline March 15th, 2014

UC Berkeley's Center for Japanese Studies, with support from the Japan Foundation, is pleased to announce its first annual graduate student conference. This conference brings together prominent scholars and graduate students from all disciplines in the field of Japanese Studies to discuss the concepts of ecology and space from pre-modern times to the present. Space here not only connotes the physical, but also how one views one's position relative to others and to objects in the world. Resisting the objectification of nature as mere symbol or metaphor, the concept of ecology insists on new modes of reading, writing, and thinking about the material environment that connects the human to the organic world. The international dimensions of ecological questions are particularly suited to considering Japan within the broader fabric of the global environment. Within this general thematic area, we encourage submissions from a variety of disciplines that address diverse substantive topics, including comparative or cross-disciplinary studies on issues such as: natural disaster, geopolitics, human geography, agriculture, urban space and ecology, architecture and the environment, film and visual art, literary ecocriticism, environmental aesthetics, environmental history and soundscape and affect studies.

Please visit the website for submission guidelines and conference details. The deadline for abstract submissions is March 15, 2014. Conference invitees will be notified by email by April 1. Successful applicants should submit final papers to cjsgradconference@berkeley.edu by April 26.

Call for publications: Princeton Journal of East Asian Studies Spring/Summer

2014 issue - Deadline February 25th, 2014

From the journal: "My name is Tanny Kang, and I am writing on behalf of the Princeton Journal of East Asian Studies (PJEAS). PJEAS is a student academic journal with the official support of the East Asian Studies Program at Princeton University. We publish works of scholarship written by both undergraduate and graduate students from around the world on political, economic, social and cultural issues pertaining to the East Asian region. PJEAS aims to foster both an intellectually rigorous student discourse and an atmosphere of mutual enhancement of knowledge and development of leadership in these fields.

We are currently inviting all interested students to submit their academic work for publication in our Spring/Summer 2014 Issue, scheduled to be published in May/June. Upon submission, your paper will be reviewed under a double-blind process. A member of our operational staff will contact you within a short period of time to confirm that your paper is under review.

Please visit the website for submission guidelines, and fill out the google submissions form here by February 25, 2014. If you have any general inquiries, please email Tanny Kang (tkang@princeton.edu) and Charlie Fortin (ctfortin@princeton.edu) Thank you for your time and consideration, and we hope to hear from you soon!"

Call for Posters - American Center for Mongolian Studies poster session and annual meeting, March 28th, 2014 at the Downtown Marriott in Philadelphia. Deadline for proposals March 1st, 2014

The American Center for Mongolian Studies (ACMS) is organizing a poster session on topics related to Mongolia and Inner Asia to be held on Friday, March 28nd, 2014, 7:30-10:00pm at the Downtown Marriott in Philadelphia in conjunction with the Association for Asian Studies' (AAS) annual conference and the ACMS Annual Meeting. Posters or displays on any topic related to Mongolia, Mongolian people or historical related topics are welcome.

All presenters are required to appear at the meeting to discuss their work. Posters and displays may be in either English or Mongolian language, and students and scholars from all countries and fields of study are invited to participate in the poster session and reception. The audience is expected to include students, scholars, and local residents from Mongolia, and members of the community interested in Mongolia. To propose a poster or display for the session, please send a brief abstract or description (no more than 250 words) to David Dettmann at ddettmann@mongoliacenter.org before March 1, 2014. Posters and displays will be accepted on a rolling basis. You do not need to be registered for the AAS conference to participate, but poster presenters should be a member of the ACMS at the time of the meetings. For more information on the AAS conference and the venue for the ACMS Meeting see: <http://www.asian-studies.org/conference/>.

Call for proposals: 2014 Susan Sontag Prize for Translation - $5,000 grant for a literary translation from Mandarin Chinese, Application deadline Monday, May 26, 2014

This $5,000 grant will be awarded to a proposed work of literary translation from Mandarin Chinese into English and is open to anyone under the age of 30. The translation must fall under the category of fiction or letters, and the applicant will propose his or her own translation project. The project should be manageable for a four-month period of work, as the grant will be awarded in July 2014, and the translation must be completed by November 2014.

Acceptable proposals include a novella, a play, a collection of short stories or poems, or a collection of letters that have literary import. Preference will be given to works that have not been previously translated. (Previously translated works will be considered, however applicants should include an explanation for why they are proposing a new translation.) Applicants wishing to translate significantly longer works should contact the Foundation before sending in their applications so that supplementary materials can be included. The prizewinner will be notified in July 2014 and results will be announced online at www.susansontag.com.

The prizewinner is required to complete a short final report and submit a copy of the completed translation to the Susan Sontag Foundation within four months of the prize announcement. The recipient will also be expected to participate in symposia on literary translation with established writers and translators, as well as public readings of their work once the translation has been completed.

For application and more information, visit the website at: <http://susansontag.com/prize/index.shtml>
